Hispanic Heritage Month recognizes and celebrates U.S. Latinos, their culture, history, and contributions. The observance was started in 1968 by Congress as Hispanic Heritage Week. It was expanded to a month in 1988. The celebration begins in the middle rather than the start of September because it coincides with national independence days in several Latin American countries: Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica celebrate theirs on September 15, followed by Mexico on September 16, Chile on September 18, and Belize on September 21. Here are some key facts about Maryland's Latino population:

TALENTED MINDS

The next time you slide your pencil or pen onto your shirt pocket or stack of papers, give a nod to Mexican inventor and revolutionary, Victor Ochoa. The mind behind the pencil clip also invented the electric braking system, making your train commute to work just a bit safer. (Smithsonian Education)
